Privacy Statement

The OCOA respects the privacy of its members and website visitors. The OCOA website collects data only to better serve members and other users of our website.

Information Collected by OCOA

Individual information, including contact information is gathered from members on a volunteer basis only. To gain access to members-only areas and personalized features on the website, users must create an OCOA account and provide individual information. Information submitted online may be used for email and notifications of updates or upcoming events that match the interests you provide us. This information is submitted voluntarily.

Disclosures to Third Parties

OCOA does not disclose, sell or rent your personal information to anyone except when:

- We have your consent to share the information
- We need to share your information to provide the product or service you requested

The OCOA also makes members names and contact information available to all members on the OCOA website via the online Member Directory. Members may request that information is blocked from the online Member Directory through the Name and Contact Preferences page of this website or by emailing managerocoa@tds.com

Cookies

The OCOA website uses cookies to track site login information, order information and other personalization. In order to use the members-only areas of or personalized features on the OCOA website, your browser must be set to accept cookies.
